FOREIGN NEWS ON APPLES

NOTES ON BRITISH DOMINION APPLES

New Zealand Apple Exports.

The New Zealand apple crop is very large this season and the quantity available for exportation to Great Britain and South America is now estimated at about 500,000 cases compared with only about 250,000 cases last year, according to a report by John C. Speaks, Assistant Trade Commissioner at London, received in the Department of Agriculture. The New Zealand cold stores are congested and shipping facilities, although more extensive than last season, are said to be unable to handle the rush of fruit for export.

New Zealand Exports Many Varieties of Apples.

The following particulars of the varieties of apples exported from New Zealand to Great Britain, South American, Hawaii and British Columbia during the 1925 season have just been published by the "Fruit World of Australasia":-

Export Prices for Western Australian Apples.

The demand for apples for export from Western Australia during February was keen with agents offering $1.36 for Jonathans, $2.04 for Dunn's, and $2.16 for Cleopatra's on rails at grower's siding, says Vice Consul H. E. Coates at Melbourne. This fruit inspected for export was of excellent quality and in prime condition.

Nova Scotia Apple Growers Want Preference in British Markets.

Apple growers of the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia, the region producing the bulk of the apples exported from Canada and the most important competitor of American apples on the British market, have organized committees to secure the cooperation of the Canadian and the British Government in working out some form of preferential treatment for Canadian apples in the United Kingdom, according to press reports.
